LIVE
LUNCH -N- LEARN
SEMINAR

Children as Witnesses in Court Proceedings: Exploring Competency, Crawford, and Taint.

Often times in criminal and family court matters children are called upon to testify as witnesses. Children as witnesses raise a number of unique issues. This seminar will deal with issues surrounding when and how a Court determines whether a child witness is competent to testify, what happens when a child cannot testify and Crawford issues are raised, and when are children's statements excluded because of taint.

This seminar is perfect for all attorneys in the Criminal and Family Law sections who will at one time or another have to deal with children as witnesses.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIAv.PAUL RANSFORD REIDCRIMINAL PROCEDURE / PRE-TRIAL MOTIONS / SUPPRESSION MOTIONS

At a suppression hearing, the Commonwealth bears the burden of proving that the challenged evidence was lawfully obtained. Pa.R.Crim.P. 581(H).

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW / 4TH AMENDMENT / SEARCH AND SEIZURE

A police officer may stop a vehicle whenever he has reasonable suspicion based on articulable facts to suspect that a provision of the Motor Vehicle Code has been violated.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW / 4TH AMENDMENT / AUTOMOBILE SEARCHES / WAIVER AND CONSENT

Police may search a vehicle without a warrant or probable cause if the owner of the vehicle validly consents to the search. It is the Commonwealth's burden to prove that a defendant consented to a warrantless search.

*CONSTITUTIONAL LAW / 4TH AMENDMENT / AUTOMOBILE
SEARCHES / VALIDITY OF CONSENT*

For consent to an otherwise illegal search to be valid, the consent must be unequivocal, specific and voluntary. The determination whether consent is voluntary is made upon an examination of the totality of the circumstances.

*CONSTITUTIONAL LAW / 4TH AMENDMENT / AUTOMOBILE
SEARCHES / VALIDITY OF CONSENT*

Factors to be considered in determining whether consent was voluntarily given include (1) the circumstances and nature of a prior lawful detention; (2) the presence of numerous officers; (3) police conduct and demeanor in the encounter; (4) the location of the interaction; (5) the length of time of the detention; (6) whether police isolated subjects, physically touched them or directed their movement; (7) the content or manner of questions or statements; (8) the absence of an express endpoint to the detention in the form of an admonition by the officer that the defendant is free to leave; and (9) the defendant's knowledge of his right to refuse to consent.

*CONSTITUTIONAL LAW / 4TH AMENDMENT / AUTOMOBILE
SEARCHES / VALIDITY OF CONSENT*

A two-hour roadside detention in the presence of numerous police officers coupled with the defendants refusing to sign a written consent to search and remaining silent when verbally asked for consent to search were inconsistent with a consensual search.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ERIE COUNTY,
PENNSYLVANIA CRIMINAL DIVISION NO. 1942 of 2009

Appearances: Mark W. Richmond, Esq., Attorney for the Commonwealth
Stephen E. Sebald, Esq., Attorney for the Defendant

OPINION AND ORDER

The Defendant in this matter has filed an Omnibus Pre-Trial Motion requesting a Suppression of evidence including contraband that was seized from him as a result of a traffic stop on June 24, 2009 by Trooper Gary Knott of the Pennsylvania State Police.

A hearing was held in this matter on April 7, 2010 in which extensive testimony was taken from the witnesses.

The factual basis for this stop was that Trooper Gary Knott, who was on patrol in a marked State Police Patrol car on Interstate 90 observed the Defendant operating a 1990 white Audi with Florida registration plates that were obscured by a dark and plastic cover. The Trooper initiated a stop with his lights; the Defendant was initially cooperative and produced proper license, registration and insurance papers. The Trooper verified that the papers and registration were correct and as the Trooper began to return the documents to the Defendant, the Trooper asked the Defendant whether or not he had any contraband, weapons, drugs, etc. in the car, to which the Defendant replied "No". The Trooper also asked the Defendant if he had ever been arrested, to which the Defendant said "No". The Trooper knew this information to be incorrect because when he was checking the registration and insurance from his computer in the car, he also checked the criminal record of the Defendant, who is a Jamaican immigrant and now a naturalized citizen. The record indicated that the Defendant had been arrested in 1998 for possession of marijuana but the charges were subsequently dismissed.

The Court also finds that Trooper Knott had told Mr. Reid that he was free to leave, but after this conversation, Trooper Knott did not believe that Mr. Reid was exhibiting signs indicative of deceptive behavior and requested from Mr. Reid permission to search the car. The Trooper claims that Mr. Reid consented; Mr. Reid testified that he did not. At the time of the request for the search and shortly there after, two additional Troopers arrived at the scene along Interstate 90. It was at this point that the Court concludes that this was no longer a traffic stop, but in fact a detention.

Trooper Knott continued to search the vehicle including removing the rear seat, opening the trunk in which he discovered what appeared to be a supplemental gas tank, that had no outlet valve. Despite this search of the car and the trunk, which also contained a suitcase, the Trooper was unable to find any contraband and continued to detain Mr. Reid for an additional two hours awaiting a drug search dog to appear with the aid of the Department of Immigration services. The dog did not arrive on the scene until 2:40 p.m. Significantly, the Trooper asked the Defendant to sign a written form granting permission to search the vehicle and its contents. The Defendant refused. The Trooper then again asked the Defendant for oral permission to search and the Defendant remained silent. More particularly the Trooper told the Defendant that if he did not respond then the Trooper would assume that the Defendant was consenting to the search. The Defendant remained silent and the Trooper continued the search resulting in the discovery of over 12 pounds of marijuana. In order to be a valid consent to search the consent must be unambiguous and unequivocal. The Defendant by refusing to sign a written consent to search and maintaining his silence clearly did not unequivocally consent to search, in fact he refused to give permission to search.

The dog immediately alerted to the suitcase, which when opened contained 12 pounds of high-grade marijuana. Mr. Reid's vehicle was seized and he was placed under arrest. Subsequently at the barracks he signed a waiver and revealed his source of drugs in Cleveland, Ohio, another Jamaican, and that he was transporting the drugs from Ohio to New Jersey.

This case is almost identical to the factual situation found in Commonwealth v. Powell, 2010 WL 1226148 (March 31, 2010) Superior Court. In fact, the circumstances of the stop, the actions of the trooper and the words used are virtually identical to the aforementioned case the Superior Court held that a search and detention of more than 20 minutes was more than sufficient to require a Suppression of the Evidence, because it was no longer a traffic stop. This Court concludes, as did the Superior Court in the aforementioned case, that Mr. Reid was not free to go under the totality of the circumstances. Therefore, it is with great reluctance that the Court must GRANT the Motion to Suppress the Evidence and any subsequent statements made by Mr. Reid, as a result of this illegal detention.

It certainly does not prevent the Commonwealth from notifying Immigration and Naturalization Services of the criminal conduct of Mr. Reid, as well as a seizure of the contraband and the automobile as products of a criminal activity.

ORDER

And now this 23rd day of April, 2010, consistent with reasoning and findings in the afore mentioned Opinion, the Court grants the Motion to Suppress, the evidence and statements of the Defendant.

BY THE COURT:

/s/ Michael E. Dunlavey, Judge
